Chair's activities have still been severely affected by the health crisis, and by the measures taken at both political and academic level. However, online teaching has greatly improved and members of the University have very fast got used to the new environment.

As regards Teaching activities, undergraduate courses (Teaching Nr 1 and 2) have been offered and taught in person. In terms of postgraduate Teaching activities, the course on Global Public Law (Teaching Nr 3) has been offered and taught online. More than 30 students from Latin America have joined the program. The two Workshops on Global Public Law and Regional Integration in Latin American Perspective that were foreseen in the project (Events Nr 1 and 2) have also taken place online. Likewise, the Workshop on EU environmental and energy law (Event Nr 3) and the Jean Monnet Lecture Series (Event Nr. 4) have also been successfully organized.

In sum, the Chair has actually offered the catalogue of academic activities – in terms of both teaching activities and events – that was included in the description of the project.

2. Next, Dolores Utrilla explained the evolution of the research projects of Chair. Having already published the collective volume on Global Public Law foreseen in the description of the project (Iustel, 2020), Chair researchers have kept on publishing papers on European and Global Administrative Law in the Jean Monnet Pre-Print Series.

3. Jesús de Paz Martín, in representation of the Dean, explained how teaching is going to be performed along the school year 2020/21. In-person teaching has been so far a clear success, and it will be maintained as long as the health situation so allows. Permanent supervision and evaluation procedures will nonetheless be implemented throughout the year.

4. The Annual Report September 2020 – September 2021 is finally approved by all the attending members of the board.

Meeting ended at 11:00 am.
